DEFINITION OF TERMS:

The terms and phrases used in the ISSP Template shall be understood to mean as follows:

1. Agency – refers to any bureau, office, commission, authority, or instrumentality of the national government, including government-owned or–controlled corporations (GOCC), authorized by law or by their respective charters to contract for or undertake information and communications technology networks and databases, infrastructure or development projects.
2. Application System - refers to a group of related activities or processes designed to support a very specific function (e.g. Payroll System, Accounting System, etc.). It is referred to as "computer-based information system" prepared for the organization to process tasks that are unique to the particular needs or "tailor fit" for the particular operation.
3. Biometrics - the science and technology of measuring and statistically analyzing biological data. In ICT, it refers to technologies for measuring and analyzing human body characteristics such as fingerprints, eye retinas and irises, voice patterns, facial patterns and hand measurements, especially for the authentication of someone. ("What is?Com's Encyclopedia of technology Terms; Que Publishing 2002")
4. Business Process- a collection of business transactions between business partners and/or internal activities within one business. These transactions and/or activities together support the objective of the business process.
5. Computing Scheme - may be classified into two, namely stand-alone or independent systems, and networked systems.
  - A. Stand-alone or Independent Systems – a computing scenario wherein a computer system runs an application system or IS independent of other systems. The operating system, application program and database are resident in the same computer and not dependent on other computer systems.
  - B. Networked Systems – a computing scenario wherein computers, printers and other devices are linked together, allowing users to exchange and share information and resources. Networking is classified as follows:
    - B.1. Local Area Networking (LAN) – which is confined to moderate sized geographic areas such as one office, building, warehouse or campus. LAN can operate in different computing scenarios, namely:
      - B.1.1 Centralized - is a networking characterized by:
        - One site supplying all information processing
        - Information integrated at one location
        - Development of software and control are integrated at one location
      - B.1.2. Centralized-Distributed – where the database in a central server is divided into disjoint (non-overlapping) partitions. Each partition (also called a fragment) is assigned to a particular remote site. In this scenario, the data is moved closer to local users and is more accessible.

FY 2016 - 2017

NATIONAL COMMISSION ON MUSLIM FILIPINOS

- B.1.3 Open Systems - can be ported across a wide range of systems and inter-operate with other application on local and remote systems and interact with other users, which facilitates user portability.
- B.1.4 Client-Server – the most recent approach in networking wherein the logic of the application is divided between a front-end computer (called the client) and a back-end computer (called a server). The client generally provides and uses information while the server retrieves, selects, sorts, calculates, sends only needed data and manages the database.
- B.2. Wide Area Networking (WAN) – which usually consists of a series of complex packet switches interconnected by communication lines and spans large geographical distances.
6. Content Management Software – a software used to manage the content of the website and consists of two (2) elements: the content management application (CMA) and the content delivery application (CDA). It enables one to add/or manipulate content on a website. (p.5 NCC Government Website Workshop Manual)
7. Data Warehouse - stores data from current and previous years that has been extracted from the various operational and management databases of an organization.
8. Data Archiving - an effort to avoid database chaos, intended to let organizations cull old data from their rational databases in a way that allows it to be easily restored if necessary. This could be in the form of: (1) print media like records, photos, films and negatives; (2) electronic media like videos, diskettes, magnetic tape, databases, CD-ROM and Web page snap shots. Archiving, in general, is a process that will ensure that information is preserved against technological obsolescence and physical damage. It will also help conserve very expensive resources and ensure that the research potential of the information is fully exploited. In the Philippines Statistical System (PSS), the adoption of archiving measures has been identified by the NSCB through Resolution No. 11 (s. 1997) as a key policy to ensure the preservation, systematic storage and retrieval of statistical data including records on their methodology, concepts and other metadata.
9. Database Management System (DBMS) - viewed as a system software package that controls the development, use, and maintenance of the databases of computer–using organizations.
10. Database (DB) - an organized group or set of inter-related information about a subject that can be processed, retrieved, analyzed and used in drawing conclusions and making decisions.
11. Firewall – a system designed to prevent unauthorized access to or from a network. Firewalls can be implemented in both hardware and software, or a combination of both. Firewalls are frequently used to prevent unauthorized Internet users from accessing private networks connected to the Internet, especially Intranets.
12. Hardware - the electronic and physical components, boards, peripherals and equipment that make up a computer system as distinguished from the programs (software) that tell these components what to do. It is the physical component consisting of the input devices, central processor, output devices and storage devices.
13. Hub – a central connecting device in a star topology network that allows the network to add workstations by extending the transmission signal. A central point of connection between media segment that organizes and transmits incoming signals to the other media segments.
14. Information and Communications Technology (ICT) - is the totality of the electronic means employed to systematically collect, process, store, present and share information to end-users in support of their activities. It consists of computer systems, office systems, consumer electronics and telecommunications technologies, as

A written expression of how an agency intends to use ICT to support its data processing and decision-making processes.
19. In-house Development - the user (within the agency) is involved in the design and operations of IS, actively participates in the change process and the user's knowledge and expertise is incorporated.
20. Internet - a worldwide interconnection of millions of computer networks and databases. It is popularly referred to as the Information Superhighway, the Web, or simply as the Net.
21. Internet Service Provider (ISP) – an entity or company that provides connection services to the Internet. Access to the Internet is provided through its facility linked to the Internet. Such service provider may be a commercial entity, an institution, a university, or any other entity that has already a link to the Internet.
22. Management Information Systems – information systems which include external information in addition to the internal information about the agency's operation. This information will be used for goal setting, and decision-making purposes of the different levels of management in the organization.
23. Mission-Critical Frontline Services - basically transactional, customer-driven business processes designed to provide direct public access to government services, reduce the processing and approval time of government transactions with the public, electronically organize and store vital data/information for easy retrieval or updating, processing, and sharing with government monitoring or statistical agencies; and ensure greater transparency, accountability and integrity of government operations and transactions.

NCMF

NCMF ISSP FY 2016 - 2017

PART I. ORGANIZATIONAL PROFILE

D. PRESENT ICT SITUATION (STRATEGIC CHALLENGES)

To support NCMF's strategic thrusts/programs, the Commission seeks to embark on an IT-based information systems development program. The program is aimed at developing organizational mechanisms for continuing inventory of data and information on Muslim affairs. This includes information processing systems and data banks which are to be computer-based. To streamline the information processing systems for Muslim affairs data, there is a need to develop organizational resources data.

It is conceived that the various information systems – collectively termed as Management Information System (MIS) – to be developed by NCMF shall provide a key supporting role to both its policy-making activities and the management of the whole organization. This includes support of the NCMF undertakings in the following: surveys and research on Muslim affairs, conduct of project feasibility studies, extension work, training and manpower development, institutional cooperation and collaboration.

It is through such information systems that the appropriate organization structures shall be developed, enhanced and maintained, and the necessary channels and linkages shall be built to ensure the continuous flow of feed-forward information needed for policy-making, planning and programming, and the feedback information from NCMF operations.

The information systems shall also provide the integrating mechanism for relating digital imagery, data-to-data coming from NCMF surveys and operations.

Initially, the Commission has implemented its electronic payroll system for a more efficient, prompt, and easily accessible system of payroll distribution. An informative website (www.ncmf.gov.ph) is also in place providing information to Muslim Filipino communities on the operations and current activities of the Commission.

Currently, the computer ratio density in the Commission's Central Office is 1:2 (that is, one computer shared by two employees), in Regional Offices the ratio is 1:40 (that is, one computer shared by 40 employees) and the computer literacy rate on various office softwares is around 50% of total employees of the Commission.
